me: hello everything you know is wrong jen: hi, barrett, aren't you supposed to be role playing =) me: you've been told to engage in a thought experiment game me: What was it like before you were born?
jen: I'm sure you have more access to that information than I do, but I'd say it was the time just before technology really began its rise.
me: since you don't have any real access to knowledge of where you came from, you ought to be receptive to anyone who proves himself to have more information than you on that jen: sure
jen: do you need to be reset?
